ASSOCIATION

The Council of Professional Associations on Federal Statistics (COPAFS) recently contacted Americaneagle.com to design, develop,, and host the new COPAFS.org web site, in an effort to develop a stronger online presence and help in providing information on federal statistics.

The new site found at www.copafs.com enables members to have an opportunity to review and have an impact on issues including timeliness, quality confidentiality, and the relevance of data. Visitors can quickly learn more about the association and the site allows them to find a full range of statistic services. Americaneagle.com developed a customized graphical layout built around the COPAFS brand to successfully represent the quality and professionalism of COPAFS and its statistic services.
