ASSOCIATION

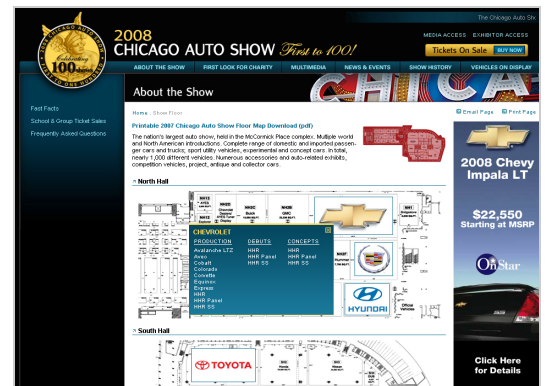

The Chicago Automotive Trade Association (CATA) first contacted Americaneagle.com in 2005 following problems they had encountered with Web site functionality. In turning to Americaneagle.com, CATA's goal was to fully redevelop ChicagoAutoShow.com with a strong focus on key components such as navigation and browser compatibility. Since their initial overhaul, CATA has been turning to Americaneagle.com every year for redesigns and enhancements. Indeed, the site for the 2008 Auto Show, which was a milestone 100th show, was revamped with a bold new design and several upgraded to functionality, including: a new homepage image slideshow, RSS feeds, Flash accents, an interactive show floor plan, printable media badges, and much more.
