St. Barnabas Catholic School and Parish, located in Chicago, Illinois, recently teamed up with Americaneagle.com for the full redesign of their school and parish Web site. Before completing a complete site redesign, St. Barnabas was maintaining a site that was 13 years old and outdated. One of the main goals of the redesign was to not only bring the site up to date with fresh graphics, but also to help automate some of the manual processes that St, Barnabas was taking in order to keep their site current. The new site features Americaneagle.com's idev® content management system, which empowers St. Barnabas staff to make quick and easy changes. What's more, the new site increases awareness, enrollment, and community involvement. It also improves internal communications between the parish and school organizations.
