The Village of Arlington Heights teamed up with Americaneagle.com in early 2008 for the complete redesign of their village online presence. The goal of the redesign was to improve the village's overall impression, expand outreach, and help in recruiting businesses to Arlington Heights. To accomplish these goals, Americaneagle.com developed a site that hits on many of the key features that site visitors look for. By restructuring the entire navigation system, the site now is very easy to navigate and has an significantly enhanced look and feel. New Web tools such as quick links and a dynamic event calendar also contribute to the site's overall improvement. Furthermore, the Village of Arlington Heights can now easily update the site with new events, news, etc. through their new idev® Content Management Tool.
